

A MAN AFTER GOD'S OWN HEART!

“A man after God’s own heart” is a very well known phrase to many Christians. It is quoted frequently to describe King David. It is used to exhort a young person who is becoming a man after his own heart. This person wants to do what is right in his own eyes. He claims to be a Christian but his life is beginning to look less and less Christian-like in many ways. He disobeys his parents. He talks back to them with a raised voice when in his younger days he did not do so. He begins to lose interest in his studies. His new-found friends have begun asserting a carnal influence that is slowly changing him, with frightful consequences. The parents are heavy-hearted. They are losing their son to the world. They feel helpless. This, however, is not an infrequent account and it does not apply only to teenagers but also to adults of all ages.

What has happened to the man/woman after God’s own heart who used to worship and serve the Lord faithfully in His house? Where is the prayerful soul whose example once pointed others to Christ? How could adulthood impact the heart of a man/woman, who used to be after God’s own heart, to change so tragically, to love the world and turn his/her back on Christ? May our gracious God help us to stand true to Christ as men and women “after God’s own heart” all the days of our lives till Christ returns. Amen.
